

Getting Your Child On Track!

Here are a few suggestions your child can use at home to organize school materials and complete assignments on time. Read through the ideas with your child and display the list in a prominent place. Spend some time with your child establishing good habits and the school year will be a great success!

Parents and Students:

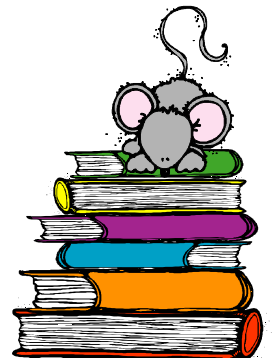

1. Establish one central location at home for doing homework.
2. Place your backpack and materials at your "study station" when you arrive home from school.
3. Establish a special study or homework time each night, such as when you arrive home, after dinner, or in the early evening.
4. Review your agenda at the beginning of your homework time.
5. Mark an X or ✓ in front of each assignment as you complete it.
6. Check through your completed work with a parent.
7. Have your parent initial your agenda.
8. Carefully repack your backpack with your completed assignments and materials.
9. Place your backpack by the door through which you leave for school in the morning.

Parents

Homework in the primary division involves practising the skills the students are learning in class. Ideas and strategies learned in class will be included on your child's homework sheet. As well, our class website will inform you of what is going on in class and how to help support your child at home (strategies, websites etc.). As all children are unique, at times, your child may bring home an activity that reflects their individual learning needs.

Helpful Websites:

edu.gov.on.ca
primarygames.com/math.htm
nlv.m.usu.edu/en/nav/vlibrary.html
aaamath.com

Getting Your Child On Track!

Here are a few suggestions your child can use at home to organize school materials and complete assignments on time. Read through the ideas with your child and display the list in a prominent place. Spend some time with your child establishing good habits and the school year will be a great success!

Parents and Students:

1. Establish one central location at home for doing homework.
2. Place your backpack and materials at your "study station" when you arrive home from school.
3. Establish a special study or homework time each night, such as when you arrive home, after dinner, or in the early evening.
4. Review your agenda at the beginning of your homework time.
5. Mark an X or ✓ in front of each assignment as you complete it.
6. Check through your completed work with a parent.
7. Have your parent initial your agenda.
8. Carefully repack your backpack with your completed assignments and materials.
9. Place your backpack by the door through which you leave for school in the morning.

Parents

Homework in the primary division involves practising the skills the students are learning in class. Ideas and strategies learned in class will be included on your child's homework sheet. As well, newsletters will inform you of what is going on in class and how to help support your child at home (strategies, websites etc.). As all children are unique, at times, your child may bring home an activity that reflects their individual learning needs.

Helpful Websites:

edu.gov.on.ca
primarygames.com/math.htm
nlvm.usu.edu/en/nav/vlibrary.html
aaamath.com

